On 20 April, London's Capital Club hosted a MIFC Joint Liaison Group roundtable for Russian and British financial industry members.

The roundtable discussion revolved around current trends in the Russian economy, ways towards recovery, and the progress of financial sector reform. The agenda included state incentives of economic growth, regulation and market infrastructure reform, improved corporate governance, the state of the banking sector, and long-term money generation approaches and instruments.

The Russian side was represented by Head of MIFC Taskforce Alexander Voloshin, First Deputy Chairman of the Bank of Russia Sergey Shvetsov, CEO of Moscow Exchange Alexander Afanasiev, First Deputy Chairman of Vnesheconombank Andrey Sapelin, MDM Bank CEO Oleg Vyugin, International Investment Bank CEO Nikolay Kosov, Head of Research at VTB Capital Dmitry Dmitriev, Director at Prosperity Capital Alexander Branis and others.

The British side comprised top finance and banking professionals and was led by MIFC Joint Liaison Group Co-Chairman and Chief Executive at TheCityUK Chris Cummings.
